

How Do I Block or Report Someone?

Here's how to do it:

At Currently, we're committed to creating a safe, real, and respectful space for everyone. If someone is making you uncomfortable, violating the rules, or behaving inappropriately, you can block or report them in just a few taps.

Blocking Someone

When you block someone:

- ☐ They can't see your profile or moments
- ☐ They can't message you or react/comment
- ☐ You automatically unfollow each other

To Block Someone:

1. Go to the user's profile
2. Tap the ':' menu (usually top right corner)
3. Select Block User
4. Confirm when prompted

You won't receive any notifications from them after blocking.

Reporting Someone

Use this if someone is:

- ☐ Sharing offensive or harmful content
- ☐ Spamming or pretending to be someone else
- ☐ Violating Currently's Community Guidelines

To Report a User or Moment:

Option 1: From a User's Profile

1. Tap the ':' menu on their profile
2. Select Report User

3. Choose the reason and submit

Option 2: From a Moment

1. Tap the ‘:’ icon on the specific moment
2. Select Report Moment
3. Choose your reason (e.g., nudity, hate speech, spam)
4. Submit

Reports are reviewed by our moderation team — serious violations may result in suspension or removal.

Can I Unblock Someone Later?

Yes. To unblock:

1. Go to Settings → Privacy → Blocked Users
2. Find the user and tap Unblock

They won’t be notified that they were unblocked or blocked.

Summary

Action	Result
Block	Hides your profile, moments, and prevents all interaction
Report	Sends an alert to our moderation team for review
Unblock	Available anytime in Settings → Privacy → Blocked Users

Your Safety Matters

Blocking and reporting are confidential. The other user won’t be notified — but it helps protect you and improve the community.
