

What Is a Place Check-In?

It adds location to your real-time moment, helping others discover new places and know what's happening right now — in the real world.

A Place Check-In on Currently is how you let others know where you are while posting a moment — whether you're grabbing coffee, attending an event, playing sports, or just hanging out at a cool spot.

Why Use Check-Ins?

- ☐ To show your current location during an activity
- ☐ To connect with others who've been to the same place
- ☐ To leave a forever footprint of your visit
- ☐ To give word-of-mouth exposure to that place

Your check-in becomes a permanent footfall on that business or location's page — helping others discover you've been there and why it matters.

How to Check-In to a Place

1. Tap the '+' button to post a moment
2. Select your activity type
3. Tap on Check-In
4. Choose a nearby place from the suggested list — or search manually
5. Add any other tags, photo/video, and caption
6. Post your moment!

You must enable location access to see nearby check-in suggestions.

What Happens After You Check-In?

- ☐ Your moment will appear on the Map, if it's public
- ☐ The place you tag will get a footfall count

- Anyone viewing that place's feed can see your moment forever
- It helps build social credibility for local businesses and spots

Is My Location Shared Precisely?

No. Currently never shares your exact GPS location.

- Check-ins are tied to public places only (like restaurants, gyms, clubs, events)
- You choose the place manually — you're always in control

Can I Check In Without a Photo?

Yes — though we encourage sharing a photo/video for more engagement, you can just select an activity + place and post it as a check-in moment.
